

Student-Professional Networking Session

at Maryland Water Monitoring Council's Conference
December 7, 2018

The session will begin with a panel of environmental and water quality professionals from industry (consulting and technical), government, and education discussing their career paths and advice. Students will learn, and have opportunities to ask the panel questions, about careers in water quality and environmental fields. The session will conclude with time for students to meet and talk to the panel participants.
